What Am I proud about:

In this project, our team achieved the successful development of a login page by integrating it with Firebase database services. Through this implementation, user login details, such as usernames and passwords, are securely stored in the Firebase database, ensuring efficient and reliable data management. The utilization of Firebase not only enhances the security of user credentials but also provides a scalable and real-time database solution for our login functionality. This accomplishment marks a significant milestone in the project, as it establishes a robust foundation for user authentication and data storage within our application.

In further project reports, we will update the remaining things and take our project to the next step by validating fields and adding other pages based on the proposal.

Next steps:

- Calculating nutritional values in food intake
- Finalize API
